

KRPA is a small membership association. I know all the members by name. To ask each of them to submit a written request so that I can fax or email materials they want is absurd. Please recind this ruling. Find another way to deal with unsolicited faxes and emails without interfering with good business relationships that have taken years to develop. Thank you.